Technical Manager - Dairy Ingredients

Cambs/Herts Borders • £Excellent Salary + Car + Benefits Package

Volac is a privately owned £multi-million business, producing and marketing a high quality range of nutritional dairy ingredients into the UK and Global markets. Volac are leaders in the application of dairy nutrition, manufacturing and supplying performance nutrition products around the world.

This is a Commercial Technical Manager role, operating from our headquarters in Orwell, managing the Dairy Ingredients division. You will be responsible for providing technical expertise across the Volac Dairy Ingredients division supporting the commercial development of our products across the food manufacturing sector. The role reports to the Commercial Director. The remit will include managing and ensuring product integrity for all products within our fast expanding markets developing the relationships with customers, major external stake holders and the key factory technical departments in the UK and Overseas. You will be controlling customer and product development initiatives, with responsibility for the nutritional information and claims, ensuring technical support with the Sales & Marketing teams targetting sectors of the food manufacturing industry worldwide.

The person we seek will need to have a Food Science related degree (Microbiology/Chemistry/Nutrition) with wide experience in the food processing sector (ideally with dairy, ingredients processing background). A passion for excellence and a professional desire to excel in a career where your knowledge and influence becomes part of your lifestyle. You should be commercially aware and intellectually stimulated with good inter-personal and team working skills. This is an excellent career development opportunity to become a recognised expert in this fast expanding ingredients sector.
